Together with guest speakers from the retail sector

In 2011, the Government endorsed the longer term goal of reducing smoking prevalence and tobacco availability to minimal levels, thereby making New Zealand essentially a smoke-free nation by 2025.

In practical terms this means the number of retailers needs to fall significantly to help achieve the 2025 goal.

Hear from a cross section of speakers, including researchers, representatives from the commercial sector and from overseas on how changing the retail landscape is possible and how the stakeholders can work together to frame the case for regulation.

Earlybird registration closes 20 December 2018
